To Our Clear View Community:

As we all struggle to find our footing during this crisis period, we are committed to remaining as accessible to our students and families as circumstances allow. As you know, in anticipation of these closings, we enabled Google Classroom for all students. Our teachers have been busily posting assignments and videos for students to access and many of our students have already been participating via Google Classroom. Your family therapists will keep in close touch, by telephone for now, while we work to set up telehealth (video) services.

All program staff are working remotely from home. If you call our main number during program hours, you will now get an automated answering system. This is different for Clear View, we know, but it is the best way during this period to handle incoming calls during program hours. This system is designed to relay your calls directly to the extension of the staff member you are trying to reach just as it would if we were all on-site. Staff will be notified of messages and able to access them remotely. After hours crisis response will function the same as always. Teachers are available to respond to their students on Google Classroom during modified school hours, 9:00am - 2:45 pm. However, your child can access their account at any time.

We will be updating you regularly as information becomes available so please check your email frequently. We at Clear View are a tight knit community. We know the value of staying connected to each other, especially during difficult times.
